SUMMARY

I am a Full-Stack Developer and builder who loves turning complex ideas into live, production-ready applications. I focus on building scalable software, keeping my architecture clean, and shipping fast.

My approach to engineering is simple: move fast, stay deeply curious, and focus on real-world execution over theory. Whether it's designing relational databases or configuring custom-domain cloud deployments, I enjoy the grit of taking a project from an empty directory to a live product that works flawlessly.

When I'm not inside a codebase or mapping out software infrastructure, you'll probably find me analyzing scalable business models or playing table tennis.

PROJECTS

Ai interviewer tool

- Building an AI-driven technical interviewer application that leverages advanced language models to evaluate developer capabilities in real-time.
- Integrated voice capabilities and 3D avatars to create an interactive, low-latency, and engaging user assessment experience.
- Developed the backend infrastructure to handle real-time data streaming, prompt engineering, and secure API handshakes.

Blog App

Building in public by publishing in-depth articles on core software engineering fundamentals, SaaS database architecture, and Ruby on Rails optimization.
Translating complex technical concepts—like implementing Stripe webhooks and managing state flow—into clear, actionable documentation for the developer community.
